

Location Search for Eastbelgian Domains

Sometimes you need to know where the servers of a domain are located. This could explain if slow loading times are due to geographical distance. It could also be due to the fact that the website is very popular and the server load is heavy, or there might be a programming error.

The location of the site shows if the data is transmitted to another country. In the case of confidential emails, this is especially important, since you now know which countries and intelligence agencies can intercept your emails.

Search engines (such as Google, Bing, Yandex, Baidu,...) also use the server location to classify web pages. A Belgian domain name on a Belgian server can thus provide an advantage in search ranking.
